Saudi Nonprofit Governance: NCNP Governance Rules for Associations and Foundations

Saudi Nonprofit Governance: NCNP Governance Rules for Associations and Foundations

Technical depth: Conceptual · Practical mode: Case study

Introduction

Associations and foundations in Saudi Arabia are now bound by written Governance Rules, and the National Center for Non-Profit Sector NCNP assesses organisations against its standards for compliance, transparency and disclosure, and financial safety. Many still run on founding bylaws, undocumented decisions and policies that exist only on paper, and a weak result can cost funding, licences and public trust. This Core Concept course equips board members and executive leaders to judge a governance system against the NCNP Governance Rules, ISO 37000 and recognised international codes, and to direct its improvement. Participants leave with a Governance Framework and Compliance Roadmap.

Course Objectives

- Explain how the general assembly, the board and executive management share authority under the Law of Associations and Foundations, its Implementing Regulations and ISO 37000
- Interpret the NCNP Governance Rules and governance standards, separating mandatory Saudi requirements from voluntary international codes
- Approve a core governance policy set, including conflicts of interest, delegation of authority and whistleblowing, proportionate to the organisation's size
- Oversee governance compliance through internal control, the Three Lines Model and a compliance obligations register
- Judge governance risks such as founder dominance, related-party dealings and terrorist-financing exposure, and direct proportionate controls
- Produce a Governance Framework and Compliance Roadmap ready for board approval

Target Audience

- Board and trustee members of Saudi associations and foundations and of charities in other jurisdictions
- General assembly members who elect the board and approve its reports
- Chief executives and executive directors accountable to a non-profit board
- Governance, compliance and board secretariat leads who maintain the governance system
- Leaders of grant-making foundations and endowments who assess the governance of grantees

Skills You Will Gain

- Governance System Design
- Decision Rights Allocation
- Conflict of Interest Oversight
- Non-Profit Compliance Oversight
- Governance Risk Judgement
- Accountability Reporting
- Policy Framework Approval

Why Attend This Course

- Leave with a Governance Framework and Compliance Roadmap that ranks gaps against the NCNP Governance Rules and gives each one an owner and a date
- Question executive reports and governance assessment results with confidence instead of accepting them at face value
- Tell apart what Saudi regulation requires of the organisation and what international good practice recommends, and decide where to go further
- Compare governance practice with board members and executives from associations, foundations and charities in Saudi Arabia and other countries

Conclusion

Good governance in an association or foundation shows in how decisions are made, recorded and challenged, not in the number of policies on file. This course moves from the Law of Associations and Foundations and ISO 37000, through the NCNP Governance Rules, its governance standards and the structures and policies that allocate authority, to the compliance, control and risk issues that most often expose boards. The final day turns that material into a Governance Framework and Compliance Roadmap that participants present to their boards as a prioritised programme of improvement.
